

Celebrities stir up memories in Maggie's 'Recipes to Remember' cookbook

- Charity cookbook featuring well-known celeb recipes and personal stories launches at Cheltenham Literature Festival -

A NEW charity cookbook, brimming with nostalgic recipes from famous faces, is set to launch at The Times & Sunday Times Cheltenham Literature Festival on October 7th.

The collaborative cookbook, Recipes to Remember, is an eclectic collection of recipes and memories in aid of Maggie's Centres, gifted by well-known personalities such as Raymond Blanc, Kirsty Allsopp and Victoria Derbyshire.

Compiled by creative dream team, Kelly James, from Shadowplay Design, Phil James, of Shadowplay Media, and Natasha Willmore, from Culpepper & Co, Recipes to Remember champions the link between fond memories and favourite foods. Featuring more than 60 mouth-watering recipes from hearty roasts to creative cakes, the book can be pre-ordered now at maggiescookbook.com and is priced at £20.

Inspired by their own personal journeys, Kelly and Natasha felt compelled to help the charity that helps so many others who have been affected by cancer.

Natasha said: "A cancer journey is so much more than just hospital visits and treatment. The impact on self-esteem, finances, relationships, travel, juggling family life and personal life, and enjoyment of food and taste all need to be supported too.

"When you walk through the door of a Maggie's, it is an environment that puts you at peace, and welcomes you. We want to raise awareness of Maggie's Centres across the UK in order to help them continue their inspirational and life-changing work. Their centres offer cancer sufferers and their families a beautiful place to find some peace and understanding."

The cookbook combines scrumptious recipes and warm-hearted memories such as Tom Kerridge's 'My Mum's Sausage Roast' that reminds him of growing up and Gabby Logan's 'Orange Chicken' that's a firm family favourite and great for summer entertaining.

The Recipes to Remember cookbook will be showcased by Dr Sarah Jarvis and Ryan Riley from Life Kitchen at The Times & Sunday Times Cheltenham Literature Festival at 8pm on October 7th in front of an audience of 200 people.

The book is further supported by the Recipes to Remember website that invites members of the public to share their own mouth-watering memories.

All of the profits go directly to Maggie's to help them continue their important work.

About Maggie's

Maggie's offers free practical, emotional and social support to people with cancer and their family and friends. Built close to specialist NHS cancer hospitals, Maggie's Centres are warm and welcoming places, with qualified professionals on hand to offer a programme of support that has been shown to improve physical and emotional wellbeing.

Great architecture is vital to the care Maggie's offers and to achieve that Maggie's works with influential architects including Zaha Hadid, Richard Rogers and Norman Foster, whose expertise and experience deliver the calm, uplifting environments that are so important to the people who visit and work in the centres.

The first Maggie's Centre opened in Edinburgh in 1996. There are now 20 centres across the UK, online and abroad, with more planned for the future.

Maggie's relies on voluntary donations to support and grow its network of centres and to develop its unique, high quality programme of support. The charity's aim is to make the biggest possible difference to people living with cancer and their family and friends.

2016 marked Maggie's 20th anniversary. Maggie's President is HRH The Duchess of Cornwall. For further information about Maggie's please go to www.maggiescentres.org.
